Honeywell Announces Removal of Revision Letter from Cable Part Numbers

Honeywell Scanning & Mobility (HSM) is removing the revision letter found in many of its legacy interface cable part numbers. This will result in a one-time effort to update ordering systems, but will prevent multiple updates in the future that would occur each time a cable undergoes a revision change.

Some important information with regards to this notice:

1. Cable pricing is not changing as part of this migration
2. Cable design is not changing, only the part number
3. Honeywell will not be accepting stock rotations, since it is only a part number change
4. Some cables may be transitioned from gray to black to continue Honeywell's SKU consolidation effort, unless the cable is part of a locked custom kit

In the attached table there are two status categories which represent the following:

Available

- New part numbers are loaded into HSM's system and are available for ordering
- Customers should update the SKU's within their system to the new part number
- Effective immediately, all orders should reference the new part numbers

Pending

- New part numbers will be entered into HSM's system and available for order as of December 31, 2009
- Customers should update the SKU's within their system to the new part number beginning January 2010
- After January 1, 2010, all orders should reference the new part numbers

Honeywell will retire all of the old part numbers as of January 31, 2010, at which point no orders will be accepted using the old part numbers.
